Re: Technology Report

1. The website and email are working very well, with no known tech issues open.
2. I had reported earlier that I had planned to migrate our website from our current "html" web page site construction over to WordPress, which I use extensively during my "day job". However, in doing some research, I found a stable and proven (and free) html editor that I have been using for over sixty days, to excellent results: Microsoft Expression Web 4. Because this editor is supported by Microsoft, is stable, works well and meets our needs, I believe it unnecessary to migrate to WordPress for the time being.
